SYLLABUS

Master of Arts in Political Science National Education Policy-2020

(Commencement Academic Year from 2022-23)

Master of Arts in Political Science

The programme offered by the department of Political Science is designed for the student pursuing post-graduation in Political Science. The syllabus introduces the students to the ancient, medieval, modern and contemporary political theories & thoughts of all continents. The course provides a theoretical and conceptual understanding of International Relations and how Asia-centric international politics has emerged and how superpowers are engaging in this region. The course deals with Indian Democracy and the challenges it faced during different periods. It also introduces the grounding ideas and principles that underlie the Indian constitution but also goes beyond to explore how caste, class, gender and ethnicity have remained a perpetual concern in the studies of Indian Politics. The syllabus provides a platform for the application of comparative methods to study politics in both what we study and how we study and introduces the students to a wide range of issues to comparative political aspects. The course focuses on the concepts and theories of Public Administration and policy formulation and facilitating its implementation. It deals with the institutional structures and contemporary issues by looking at how major social trends can affect the political process as well as how the myriad politico-social forces work together to bring about policy change. This course is devoted especially to discussing the scope and the challenges of aforesaid topics. This would help the student to make critically analyze the pros and cons of politics and find out why it is suitable for the well social order. The course also has utility for students preparing for UGC NET-JRF exams and other competitive exams.

The Post Graduation Course in Political Science shall consist of sixteen papers all spread over four semesters in two years. Besides this, there shall be a research project in each semester for 4 credits each<sup>1</sup>, there will be one minor elective paper for other faculty, and students can opt for it in either the first or second semester for 4 credits.

In the first semester, four compulsory papers will have 5 credits each. Three compulsory papers will have 5 credits for each; there shall be four optional groups (group A B C D) of 5 credits, one paper in each group, the student may opt for only one optional group among them. In the third semester, three compulsory papers shall have 5 credits each, there will be four optional groups of 5 credits, one paper in each group, and the student may opt for only one optional group among them. In the fourth semester one compulsory paper will be a research methodology for 5 credits and there will be four optional groups, each group spread over three papers, the student may opt for only one group among them. Each paper will have divided into a 75:25 ratio, there will be an end-semester examination of 75 marks and an internal assessment for 25 marks, which will be divided into three parts class test-10 marks, presentation-05 marks, assignment-10 marks.
